Real charity never says its name.

It is done discreetly in order to protect the beneficiary's dignity.

Otherwise it's just the most disgusting virtue signaling tactic ever.

Honor is not paid for.

Men rarely ask for help when they need it because people find their weakness disgusting.

And a guy in a bad place doesn't need to be mocked.

Men rarely open up because it usually backfires for them.

We haven't really evolved to humanise men with the compassion we do others.

The suicide rate increases MASSIVELY around Christmas.
If you know someone who's going to be spending Christmas alone.
Give them a helping hand and invite them over for dinner.
Being kind doesn't cost you anything.
And you might just save a life.

and your girl just wants you to be stable.
But very few people actually want you to be wildly successful.
This is why you must be ruthless in the execution of your vision.

Smoking weed has nothing to do with spirituality.

All you want is an excuse.

Weed is for lazy losers.

Real spirituality involves UNPLEASANT activities - fasting, self denial, study

NOT sitting around smoking weed and claiming to be enlightened.

Biased media, lefty politicians and dumb celebrities have been trying to convince everyone for years that 'Trump supporters are racist'.

I've found the complete opposite to be true.

Many of the kindest and most welcoming people I've ever encountered are Trump supporters...

Questions we thought we'd be discussing in 2020:

- What brand of flying car is that?
- Where can I park my hoverboard?
- Should we go to Mars this weekend?

Questions we are discussing in 2020:

- What is a 'woman'?
- Does $2+2=5$?
- Is science racist?

Millions upon millions of the most privileged people to ever walk the planet have managed to convince themselves that they are deeply oppressed...

Thus they spend all their time trying to slay invisible dragons.

It's quite amazing really. 😂

Victimhood is a mindset.

Would you rather make:

1. $50,000 and your friends/colleagues make $35,000

Or

2. $100,000 and your friends/colleagues make $200,000

A study found more people picked number one, even though it meant earning less.

Crazy.

But welcome to Human Nature 101.

People bragged to my face about how much $$$'s they're making -- even when I was secretly making 10x their number.

But I never said anything.

Why?

People love you when they're doing better than you.

If they find out you're doing better, they resent you.

She found a husband and finds it worth it to wake up at 4:30 to make him breakfast and coffee.

She is an incredible woman married to an incredible husband.
Hands down.

The only people who get offended by these sort of things are people without a happy marriage.

And losers.

Why is everyone on Twitter pretending they're perfect?

I sometimes eat fast food 3 days in row.

I sometimes miss a workout.

I sometimes spend 10 hours in bed watching YT videos & Netflix.

I sometimes procrastinate.

As long as you're productive most of the time, you're good.

Best way to raise money for your business?

Get a job.

You probably didn't expect that answer but...

That's the truth.

If you can't pay $29/month for Shopify or email marketing software

Good luck paying anything else.

Get a job, use it to fund your business.

Then quit it.

Cancelling Netflix for $10/month isn't going to help you.

Making your own coffee to save $5 isn't going to help you.

Income must be INCREASED.

Don't cut back on basic life necessities so you can pretend you're doing something good.

Make more money, spend it however you want.

The highest measure of wealth is the ability to frequently choose time with family and friends over the opportunity to make more money.

May we all reach this level before we are old and tired.

Reading for ~5 hours a day for 2 years completely rewires your brain.

If you did it as a child,

you're already smart & may believe it's innate talent instead of stored effort.

If you didn't, you won't be able to try the experiment as an adult unless you suddenly get "rich".

Six lessons:

- 1) Words don't hurt directly, your interpretation does
- 2) You can always learn more than you think you can
- 3) Your parents are as vulnerable as you are
- 4) Success attracts haters
- 5) It takes decades to build a clear mind
- 6) Health is the most important asset

Many successful people started from scratch:

clueless parents, zero savings, no connection, discriminated, little knowledge, no valuable skill.

But they wasted no time complaining, and slowly fixed their situation: built better relationships, studied smarter, took more risks.

People who don't care about making money, who focus on learning and creating something useful, make money.

People who don't care about being loved, who simply live honestly with themselves, are loved.

It's ironical that you get your best results when you are detached from them.

Humans have been around for 300,000 years.

Agriculture has been around for 12,000 years.

If meat is so "dangerous"... how did our ancestors eat so much of it for 275,000+ years?

Friendly reminder: the media's goal is NOT to keep you "informed"

Their goal is make you feel like you're informed

And getting you addicted to news by toying with your emotions and fears

The reason they do this is simple:
they get paid selling your attention to advertisers

A lot of people claim "it's impossible" now to beat large sites in Google's results.

That's utter nonsense.

Most big sites get a LOT of things wrong you can heavily optimize:

- Load Time
- Internal Linking
- Supporting Content + Topical Authority
- Page Specific Niche Backlinks
